1. What's new in v7

Chat now works the way WhatsApp does. In the previous version, product discussions were folded cards inside one long chat timeline. In v7 they move out of the timeline into their own list.

- Contacts shows only chats. Invite, new chat, new group and finding stores all move behind **+.
- Discussions are a list. Opening a store chat shows its discussions as rows, like a chat list. Opening one is a normal full-screen chat.
- Discussions don't need a product. A new discussion is named with today's date unless you type a name.
- Bulk management. Long-press to select several discussions, then close them or mark them read. Drag to reorder.
- Closed discussions sit in one row at the top of the list, like Archived, and can be reopened.
- Team-only notes. A store can write notes in any discussion that only its own team sees.
- Groups can hold several stores and people. Adding a store adds its whole team.
- Mute is the only setting on a store profile.

2. Key terms

Term	Meaning
Chat	One row in Contacts. It is with a store, a person, or a group.
Discussion	A conversation inside a chat. It can be about a product (shown with the product photo) or have no product (shown with a notes icon and named by date or by a typed name). It is open or closed.
Group	A chat with several stores and people. It has discussions, @mentions and team-only notes like a store chat.
Team-only note	A message seen only by the writer's own store. Other stores in the chat never see it.
@mention	Typing @ and a name tags that person. The name shows in blue in the message, and the chat or discussion row shows a blue @ badge.
Mute	Turns off notifications for one chat, for you only, until you turn it off.

3. Contacts

3.1 Chats only

Contacts lists chats, newest first. There are no invite banners, suggestions or store directories on this page. At the top are the title, the + button, a search field and four filters: All, Unread, Stores and Groups.

Each row shows:

- An avatar. Stores and people have initials on a colour. Groups have a two-person icon on grey.
- The name and the time of the last message. The time is white when there are unread messages.
- The last message, with the sender's name when it came from someone else (“Deepa: @Suresh can you confirm…”) or “You:” when it was yours.
- On the right: a blue @ badge if you were mentioned, a white unread count, and a slashed bell if the chat is muted.

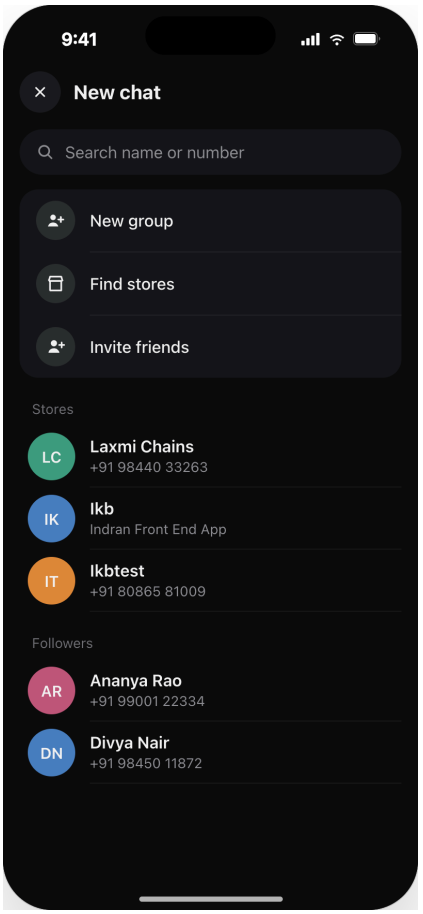

The tab bar at the bottom has Stores, Contacts, Wishlist and My store. Customers see the same page, listing stores only.

3.2 New chat (from +)

The + button opens New chat, with a search field for name or number. Three actions come first: New group, Find stores and Invite friends. Below them are the people you can chat with, under Stores (with phone number or description) and Followers. Tapping a contact opens the chat straight away.

A. Contacts, chats only

B. New chat: actions, then contacts

C. Laxmi Chains muted: slashed bell next to the count

4. Discussions

4.1 The discussion list

Tapping Laxmi Chains in Contacts opens its discussions, laid out like a chat list. If a chat has only one discussion, the chat opens directly and the list is skipped.

- Header: back, the store's avatar and name, and the member count (“10 people”, or “Muted · 10 people” with a slashed bell). Tapping the name opens the store profile. + starts a new discussion.
- Search discussions sits under the header.
- Closed is the first row when any discussions are closed, with the count on the right.
- Rows: product photo, or a notes icon for discussions without a product. Then the name, the time, the last message with its sender, a blue @ badge if you were mentioned, and the unread count.

4.2 Closed discussions

Tapping the Closed row opens Closed discussions, with a back link to the open list. Each row says who closed it (“Closed by Priya”, “Closed by you”) and has a Reopen button. Reopening moves the discussion to the top of the open list and shows a toast, for example “Reopened · Peacock jhumka”. Closed discussions show no unread counts or @ badges.

4.3 Search

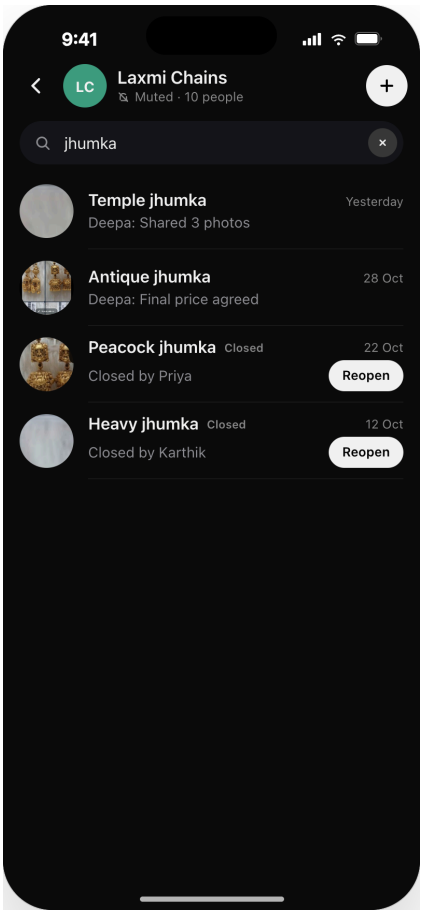

Search matches the discussion name and the last message, across both open and closed discussions. Closed results are marked Closed and keep their Reopen button. The Closed row is hidden while searching. × clears the search. With no results the list reads “No discussions match ‘…’”.

E. Closed discussions with Reopen

F. Search for “jhumka” finds open and closed

4.4 Long-press to manage

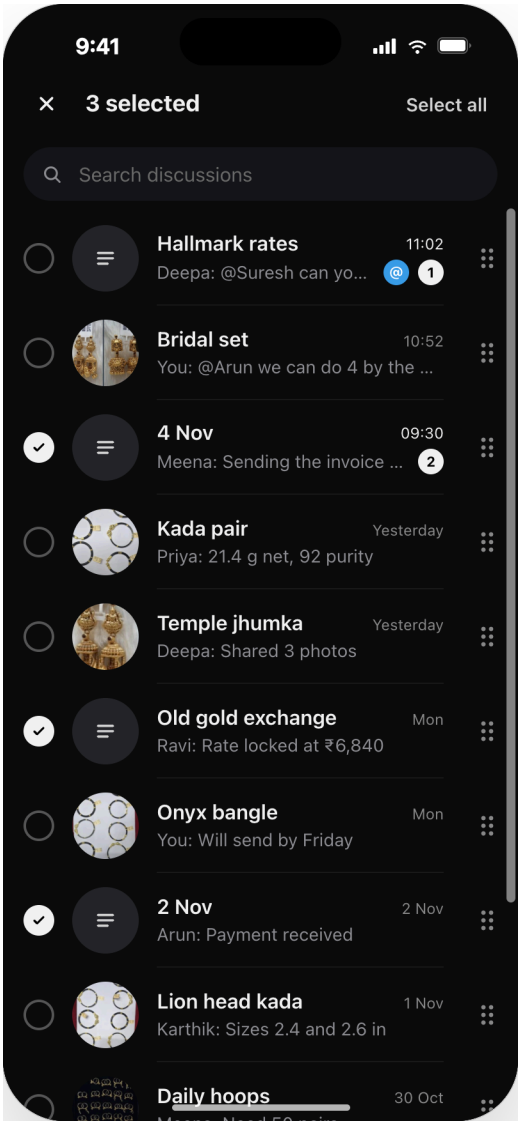

Long-pressing a row (about half a second) starts selection with that row ticked. In selection mode:

- The header shows × to cancel, the count (“3 selected”) and Select all, which becomes Clear once everything is ticked.
- Each row has a tick circle. Tapping a row ticks or unticks it.
- A bar at the bottom has Mark read and Close 3. Both are dimmed when nothing is selected. Closing shows “3 discussions closed”; marking read shows “Marked as read”. Both end selection.
- A drag handle ⠿ appears on the right of each row. Dragging it moves the row, and the other rows slide to make room. The new order stays. Reordering isn't available while searching or in Closed.

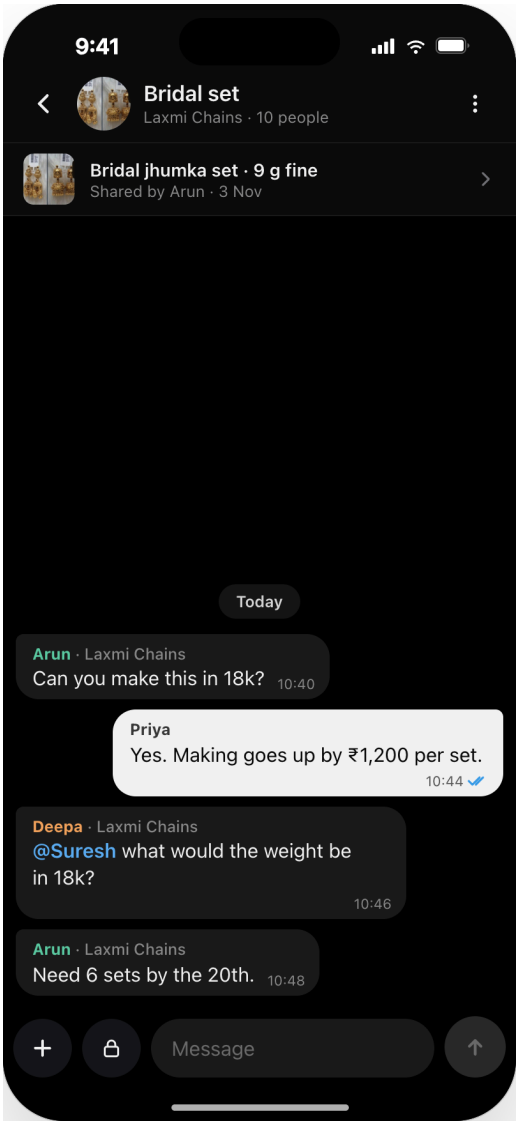

4.5 Inside a discussion

A discussion opens as a normal full-screen chat.

- Header: back, the discussion photo and name, the store and member count (“Laxmi Chains · 10 people”), and ⋯.
- Pinned product: for product discussions, the product sits under the header like a pinned message, with its name, fine weight, and who shared it when (“Shared by Arun · 3 Nov”). Tapping it opens the product.
- Names: messages from the other store show the sender and their store (“Arun · Laxmi Chains”). Messages from your colleagues show their name. Your own messages show no name.
- Message box: + to share, the lock for team-only notes, the text field, and send.

4.6 New discussion

+ in the discussion list opens a sheet. The name field is filled with today's date (“4 Nov”) and selected, so typing replaces it. A product is optional: Add a product (optional) attaches one, and the discussion then uses its photo. Start opens the new discussion.

- If no name is typed, the discussion is named with the date.
- A second unnamed discussion on the same day adds the time to the name.
- Discussions without a product show the notes icon in the list.

I. New discussion, named with the date

5. Team-only notes

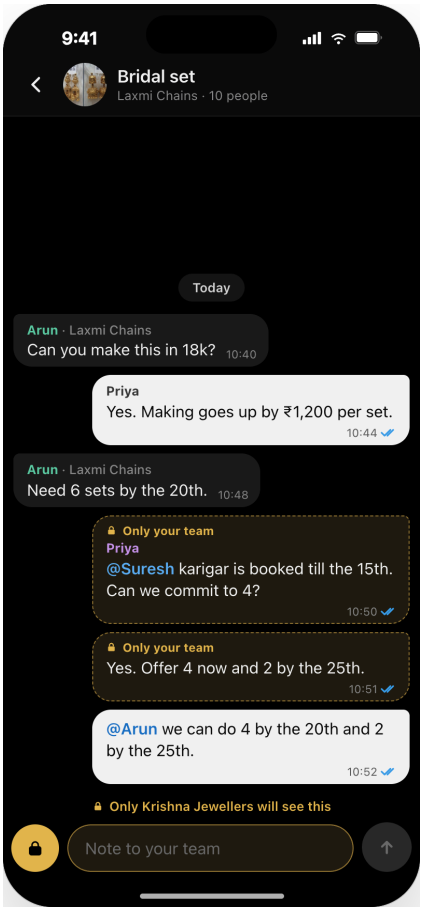

Any store can write notes in any discussion that only its own team sees. This lets a team agree on something, like a delivery date, before replying to the other store, without leaving the discussion.

5.1 Writing a note

- Tap the lock next to the message box. The lock turns amber, the box gets an amber outline, the placeholder changes to “Note to your team”, and a line above says “Only Krishna Jewellers will see this”. The send button turns amber once there is text.
- Team notes appear with a dashed amber outline on a dark amber background, labelled “Only your team”.
- Tap the lock again to go back to normal messages.
- Notes can @mention colleagues (“@Suresh karigar is booked till the 15th”).

5.2 What the other store sees

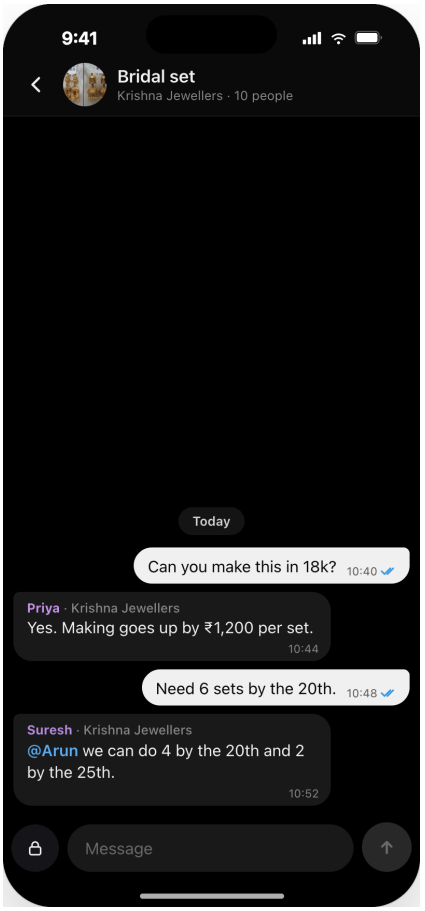

Laxmi Chains sees the same discussion with the notes removed. There are no gaps, placeholders or hints that notes exist. Laxmi Chains has its own lock for its own team notes, which Krishna Jewellers never sees.

J. Krishna Jewellers, lock on: two team notes

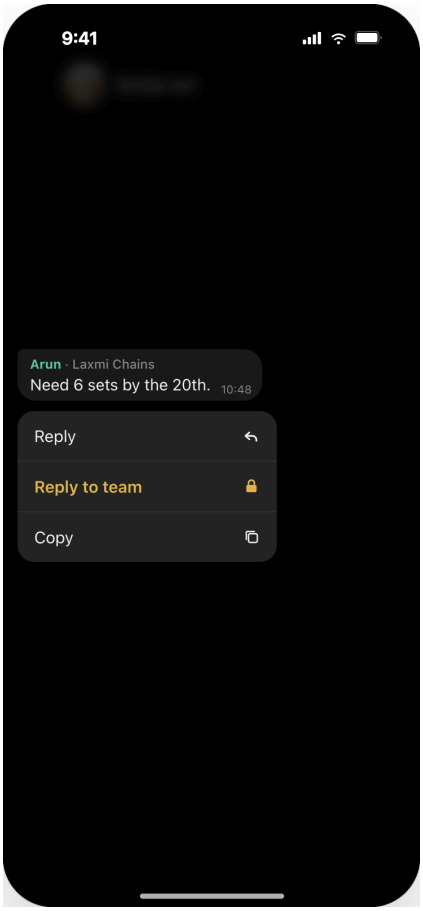

K. Same chat, lock off: normal message box

L. Laxmi Chains (Arun) sees no notes

5.3 Reply to the team about a message

Long-press any message to open its menu: Reply, Reply to team (in amber, with the lock) and Copy. Reply to team writes a note that quotes the message, and only your store sees it.

M. Long-press menu with Reply to team

6. Groups

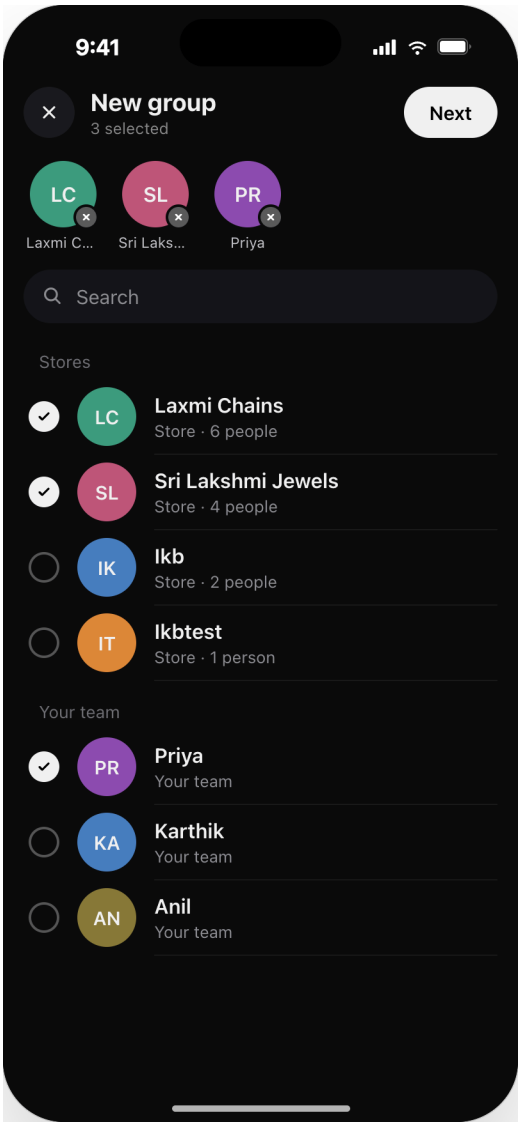

6.1 New group

Contacts → + → New group. The list has two sections: Stores (with team size, for example “Store · 6 people”) and Your team.

- Tap a row to select it. Picks collect in a row of avatars at the top; tap one there to remove it.
- Adding a store brings in its whole team.
- The header shows the count (“3 selected”), or “Add stores or people” when empty. Next is dimmed until something is picked, then asks for a group name.

6.2 Inside a group

A group works like a store chat: it has a discussion list, @mentions and team-only notes. The header shows the group icon, name, and the discussion with member counts (“4 Nov · 3 stores, 14 people”). A status line records who created it and with whom. Every message from another store shows the sender and store. Team notes in a group are seen only by the writer's store: Priya's note is visible to Krishna Jewellers but not to Laxmi Chains or Sri Lakshmi Jewels.

N. New group: two stores and Priya picked

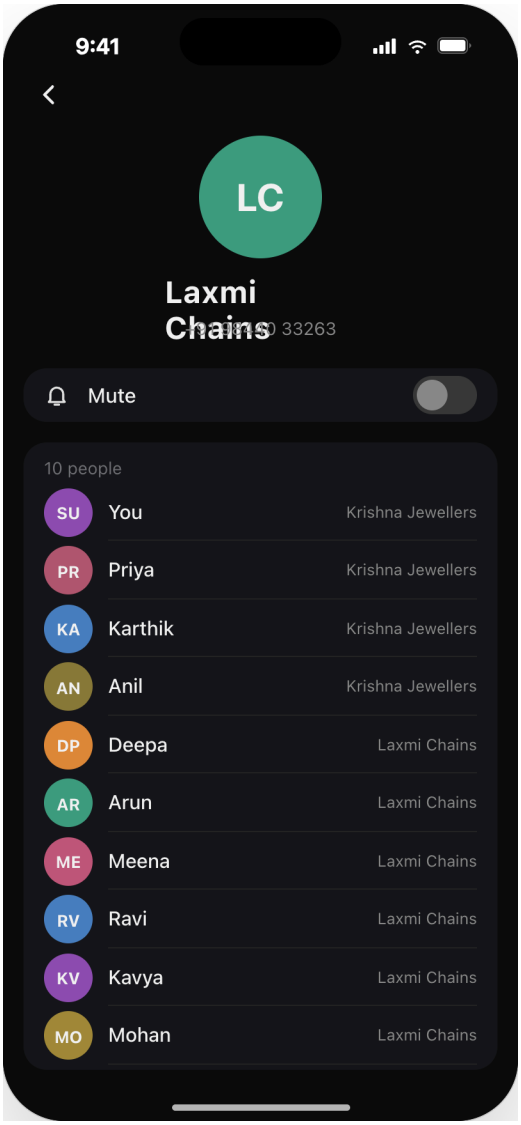

O. Group discussion with three stores

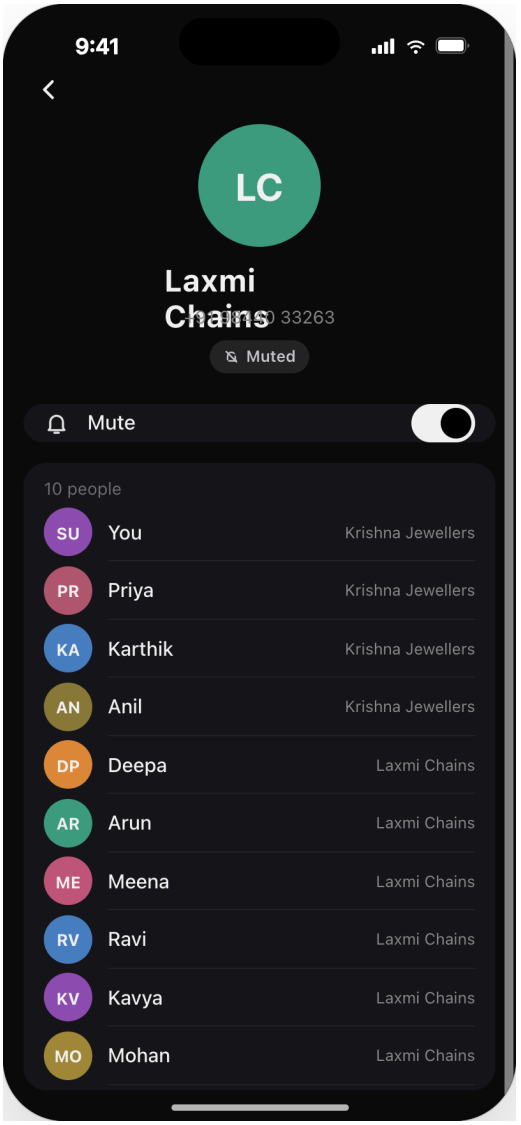

7. Profile and mute

Tapping the store name in the discussion list header opens its profile: avatar, name, phone number, a Mute switch, and the member list. Members are grouped under the count (“10 people”), each with the store they belong to, so you can see both teams in the chat.

- Mute is the only setting. It applies only to you and stays on until you turn it off. There are no time options.
- When muted, the profile shows a “Muted” pill under the phone number, the discussion list header reads “Muted · 10 people” with a slashed bell, and the Contacts row shows a slashed bell.
- Unread counts and @ badges still show on muted chats.

Q. Muted

8. Indicators

Indicator	Meaning
White count badge	Unread messages, on Contacts rows and discussion rows
Blue @ badge	You were mentioned in an unread message
Blue name in a message	An @mention
Slashed bell	The chat is muted
Two blue ticks	Read, on your store's messages
Dashed amber bubble, “Only your team”	A team-only note
Amber lock and message box	The next message will be a team-only note
Product photo / notes icon	A discussion about a product / without a product
“Closed” label	A closed discussion in search results
Status line (centred)	Events such as a group being created

9. Rules and edge cases

- A chat with one discussion opens that discussion directly. The list appears once there are two or more.
- Unnamed discussions take the date. A second unnamed one on the same day adds the time.
- Closed discussions can't be selected and show no unread counts.
- Reopening puts a discussion at the top of the open list.
- The order set by dragging stays until it is changed again.
- Selection, Mark read and Close apply to open discussions only.
- Team-only notes are visible only to the writer's store, in store chats and in groups. Nothing in the other store's view hints that they exist.
- Adding a store to a group adds everyone on that store's team.
- Mute is per person and has no expiry.
- Customers see the same Contacts page, listing stores only.

10. Colours outside the neutral palette

The chat uses neutral greys. Two accents remain: amber #E3B54E for everything team-only (lock, outline, label, send button), and blue #3B9BE8 for @ badges, read ticks and mentions.

11. Using the prototype

- 2a and 2b are live. Search, long-press to select, drag ⠿ to reorder, close, mark read, open Closed and reopen.
- 3a is live. Toggle the lock, type and press Enter. Notes appear in 3a only; normal messages appear in both 3a and 3b.
- 4a is live. Tap rows or the avatars at the top to change the selection.
- 5a is live. Toggle Mute and watch 1a and 2a update.
- The showNotes tweak hides the explanation under each screen.
